REAL ENMITY IN JOAN FILM

Due to popular demand, the Bijou management has decided to hold over the wonderful film "Joan the Woman" another two days to give opportunity to many who have not seen it, a chance to do so tonight and tomorrow night. Since this film began its run ten days ago the Bijou has played not only to capacity houses but to audiences which have waxed enthusiastic in their praise of the production, pronouncing it a masterpiece, the equal of which has never been seen here.

An example of the painstaking care given to perfection of detail in this drama appears in the wonderful "Battle of the Towers," a monster hand to hand struggle of the Middle Ages in which 3000 persons are combatable. For weeks this particular battle was rehearsed to insure accuracy and perfection of staging.

It is a fact that a feeling akin to genuine enmity was stirred up between the two camps due to the seclusion rivalry that was inspired by the producer between them in order to spur them on to their best and most realistic efforts. A bonus of $1 was offered to each participant daily who succeeded in overpowering his adversary, and a bonus of $25 was given the first man of the attacking party to secure a footing on the tower. With these allurements it can be readily understood why so much realism has been injected into this particular scene which in itself lasts some 20 minutes on the screen.

This is but one incident illustrating the realism that "Joan the Woman" features throughout the whole production.

DOYLE NOW ADVANCE MAN FOR FRAWLEY CO.

As advance manager of the T. Daniel Frawley company, now on its way here to play a six weeks engagement, J. Walter Doyle is in the city again. "I am glad to be back home in this sunny summer climate," said Doyle yesterday. "For it's certainly a change from the cold, mean winter weather of Chicago and the Pacific coast."

Mr. Frawley's company, which is due to arrive shortly, is made up of many well known players from New York, including Miss Edna Kealey, who was last here with Allan Doss, the Irish singer and player. The company will play in Maui and Hawaii first and later come here.

M. von Etter, Russian consul at Teheran, has been appointed minister to Portugal, and Mr. Bloch, councillor of the Russian embassy at Tokyo, minister at Teheran.

ALASKAN FILM AT THE HAWAII

"The Lure of Heart's Desire," produced by the Metro pictures corporation, is the feature offering of the program that opened yesterday at the Hawaii theater. It is a moving picture drama, most of the scenes of which have their settings in Arctic Alaskan wastes, and the leading part is played by Edmund Bruce, who is widely known as one of the leading Metro stars.

Robert Service's immortal poem, "The Lure of the Yukon," supplied inspiration for the picture, and the story told is that of a seeker for gold in the far North, who finds it and then tries to escape the northern country. When he returns to the gay life of New York, disappointment from his step-mother in love with his fiancée, who has turned his back toward the great clean open spaces of the North and Little Snow Bird, the Indian girl he has left behind there. The tale reaches a tragic climax when he arrives too late.

Lightening the bill is another uproarious Billy West comedy, "Cupid's Rival." In this the comedian surpasses all his former efforts as a laughmaker.

As added part of the program is the new installment of the serial, "The Railroad Raiders."

LOU TELLEGEN AT THE LIBERTY

A noteworthy event in the world of stardom here is the appearance of the great dramatic star, Lou Tellegen, whose fame as a star is international. He appears in "The Long Trail," a famous "Paramount" production, which is the feature of the bill that opened yesterday at the Liberty theater. Supporting him is Mary Fuller, noted as a Paramount star of the first magnitude. It is Miss Fuller's first appearance on the screen here.

"The Long Trail" is a thrilling love story which has its setting in the snow-covered big timber of the great Northwest. The production is notable for the marvelous Canadian mountain scenery pictured. It is a narrative full of tense scenes and swift action with Eskimo dogs and the famous Canadian mounted police, who have never been known to abandon a chase once begun. Wherever the picture has been presented and particularly in the big eastern centers, in the states it has won only words of highest praise from the critics.

The gripping serial story, "The Mystery of the Double Cross," which has awakened widespread interest here, is continued in the new program, and the weekly Pathe news pictures also are shown.

ASK CITY TO PRESERVE HISTORICAL AINAHOU

That historical Ainalahu, home of the late Princess Kaiulani, should be preserved by the city and county of Honolulu as a public park, is the substance of resolutions handed the board of supervisors Friday night by the Royal Grove Improvement club. The resolutions were presented through a letter from Geo. S. Curry, president of the organization.

The resolutions point out that the property is one that by all means should be preserved because of its historical beauty, and that it would make an ideal public park.

"Y" HAWAIIAN GIRLS COOK, SERVE DINNER

After taking the course in domestic science at the Y. W. C. A., the Hawaiian girls of the class held a dinner at the association on Thursday evening. The dinner was planned, cooked and served by the students. Each student brought a guest.

The growth of the class and the popularity of the course is shown by comparing the numbers in the class in 1916 and 1917. Last year there were 12 present at the dinner. This year 30 were present. Each student worked at a given task, even to clearing and washing the dishes.

A book agent entered a Kansas school, and after inducing the young woman teacher to dismiss the class, persuaded her to buy $2.50 worth of books.
